

Communiqué 66 is a special situation. Following the end of the Rob Lerman term as Commander STARFLEET, there was some confusion on what was the next issue to be produced. Robbie Lewis had produced Issue #65, which was put out by the incoming McGinnis administration, and, Dwaine Gleason was supposed to have masters for another issue ready to go (this was later determined to be the missing #64). Doug Glenn the incoming CQ Editor and Chief of Communications, decided to make sure there was no confusion to start the McGinnis CQs, so they chose to start with number 67. Thus #66 was not only never printed and mailed, it was simply never produced.
